Executive Summary

Dr. Zheng is an award-winning board-certified emergency physician, currently in active clinical practice in two emergency departments (trauma and stroke centers), and 5 urgent care clinics. She is the Medical Director of Quality for one of the largest healthcare systems in San Diego, responsible for improving patient safety and helping clinicians deliver high quality care. As the Medical Director of the Point Loma Nazarene University Physician Assistant program, she is an expert on physician assistant and nurse practitioner supervision. She was the emergency medicine expert for the Veterans Administration (VA) Office of Inspector General, responsible for determining whether VA staff provided substandard care, committed fraud, or violated policies. She has published more than 30 government reports, one of which resulted in $53 million of reimbursement for veterans who sought emergency care outside of the VA. She has briefed members of Congress on her findings and defended her reports. She has won medical school teaching awards, a public speaking award from the American College of Emergency Physicians, and the VA Inspector General's highest award for her "dedication to the highest standards of professionalism, character, and integrity." As a professor at the University of California, San Diego, and Riverside, she has trained over 3000 students and hundreds of professors.
